CLASS PROPHECY

PROLOGUE

Ten years have passed since forty-five
 But what do we see here?
 A'looking like they're half alive
 Some Classmates of that year.

The church is filled; the bells do peal;
 The sinners number ten;
 The Reverend Lloyd begins to kneel
 When someone yells, "Hey Ben!"

"Remember me? — at Park we trained
 In Navy V-12 days,
 I'm Musgrave, Jim — and now ordained
 Poor sinners' souls to save."

"And did you hear that Brother D.,
 Our colleague Glen Cordell,
 Each Sunday preaches sermons three
 To keep his flocks from hell?"

The scene now shifts, a teachers meet
 Is being held this year,
 And schoolmarm Jones hastens to greet
 Her Parkite friends so dear.

The first, Miss Shugart, former head
 Of W.S.G.A.

"I'm trying desperately," she said,
 "To teach my kids each day."

It wakes them up; it makes them bright."
 "But here's another plan,"
 Miss Jones suggests another light.
 "I give their hides a tan."

"Oh, you should use my system, dear,"
 Pipes up Miss Riley then.
 "I let my students drink root beer
 Each day at ten to ten."

And Maui's native daughter, "Mats",
Is next to offer aid.
"I always keep a score of bats
To hit them in the haid."

And now to "homes sweet homes" we go
To spy on happy twosomes.
But wait, perhaps we'll come to know
That twos are now some "moresomes."

'Twas Peg McHenry, only one,
Then Howard made it two;
"Twas three with John, their impish son,
And four with Kathleen Sue.

And M.A. now is Ardis L.
She's not a Burnidge now.
Her kiddies' hair she cuts to sell
Short as the law will 'llow.

"A pansy for thought, and Laurel for fame,"
Recite the cute small Frys
To Mary Carolyn whose aim
Is singing lullabies

And then there's Molly Johns (nee Nance)
With cozy nook for two.
(It's just a tiny five-floor manse
Plus farm, band-room and zoo.)

Now Kaki Teener, long since wed,
Has kiddies four, just count 'em.
Yes, sir; four girls, and all well-fed.
She decided not to drown 'em.

The Swearingens have their own home
O'erlooking a blue bay.
Our own Mil Nickless plants the loam
While Johnny makes the pay.

And now the scene shifts to the lands
In corners far remote
Where Park's alumna rank expands
Their goodwill to promote.

Here's Walter Campbell gone afar
Acquiring many a fan
As foreign reporter on K. C.'s Star
In the country of Hindustan.

If you'll come near, you'll hear the tale
Of one Jane Arp, no less,
Who with the senior funds set sail
And in China met success.

And now to places here and yon
To spy on forty-fivers
Some fame and fortune's lauds have won
In jobs and duties divers.

The big bad wolf in youngster's tales
Was quite a frightful villain,
But such a beast no more prevails
Since Betty writes for chillun.

Masaye of Forensic fame
Debates in Congress now
When "he" returned, she changed her name
And took the sacred vow.

Dick Webster's quite a statesman too,
A crisis he foresaw.
Vice president at thirty-two
He's changed the nation's law.

We find that red head gal McComb's
Out decorating now
She covers things from shelves to domes.
Come, Jerrie, take a bow!

Who once was heard, his tenor voice
In a capella blarin'?
At whose wide fame do we rejoice?
Composer Bob McLaren!

And Stevenson a pastor is,
A small white church has he.
He preaches loud 'gainst "gin and fizz"
And gives faint souls the key.

Clint Morrison now preaches too.
See that stone church down there?
'Tis said he leads the singing too,
And gestures much with care.

In Carolina, Kunce began:
She now directs a church,
While Bob G. is an "also ran,"
She left him in the lurch.

The tunes of many a joyous psalm
In churches still persist.
Of Riverside 'tis true, for Glaum
Is now Chief organist.

Of Rothstein can the tale be told;
He learned his lessons well,
For John is in the business fold
Directing personnel.

And Emily, that brilliant lass
Who said, "I have no plans."
Just hoodwinked all the trusting class
And wed one of her fans.

A member of 2-A's "elite"
A doctor did become;
Yes, wifie sits in Crockett's suite
Collecting each big sum.

"Berger and better planes our plan,"
Says former prexy Will,
The South American airlines' man
Who now big shoes does fill.

Course John went on to seminar
And joined the pastor rank,
Took ham and cheese to India far,
To feed men lean and lank.

Now Betty Covey's having fun
From west coast to the east.
"Y" work is spread with many a pun
To the largest and the least.

Remembering still that cheerful song
And still philosophizing
Abe Dohi sings the whole day long
"Oh what a lovely morning!"

Orion Star Signor Pedro
Is still an athlete strong.
He plays with teams in Morocco
And wins their praises all.

And also batting balls around
Is well-known chemist Pete
Who for his hobby all year 'round
The tennis score does beat.

Elaine has gone to bright Broadway
Her "child roles" bring her fame.
The soldier and the sailor say
She soon will change her name.

When we were freshmen, Joe was here;
He had a lively wit.
His job is weather, storm or clear,
He tells it-bit by bit.

Now see that church we're drawing nigh?
Would you believe who's there?
Don Martin, pastor, rushing by
To be in time for prayer.

EPILOGUE

And now you've seen the class who ten
Long years ago did leave
To mingle with the world of men
Their fortunes to achieve.

REPRESENTATIVE ATHLETES

JERRIE McCOMB, Aurora

CHOSEN BY THE AURORA athletes to represent them, Jerrie has proved her interest and ability in sports by earning her Park sweater. Her favorite among sports is basketball, and she has taken all-star honors in both basketball and softball.

MARY HEAGSTEDT, Lucerne

AT THE TIME of her election as representative athlete for the Lucerne Club, Mary had only participated in one year of athletics at Park. She captained the all-star volleyball team, and earned basketball all-star honors in this time. She has been a WAB member.

CAROL SHEDD, Calliopean

VETERAN OF MANY YEARS of Park sports, Carol has captained both speedball and basketball teams, earned enough points for a Park sweater, and served more than one term as president of the Women's Athletic Board. She has several all-star ratings.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

WITH CROWDED SCHEDULES and limited facilities creating a handicap, the social clubs held intramural volleyball this semester. The Orions took the championship in the fellows' tournament from the Parchevard team. The Lowells failed to muster enough personnel to put a team on the court. In the girls' tournament of two rounds, the Auroras took the championship, the Calliopeans in second place, and the Lucernes in the cellar. The all-star team beat the all-school squad in a post season set. All games played were three-game sets, the Lucernes taking the last set from the Calliopeans. Only one defeat is registered on the score of the champion Auroras.
